

OIL SPILL SCIENCE

SEA GRANT PROGRAMS OF THE GULF OF MEXICO

Exploring the intersection between oil spill science and response

February 6, 2017 | 1:00 pm – 5:00 pm CST

Hyatt Regency New Orleans | Bolden 6
601 Loyola Ave., New Orleans, LA 70113

Agenda

1:00 – 1:10 pm	Welcome & Introductions
1:10 – 1:30 pm	Dave Westerholm , Director, NOAA's Office of Response and Restoration How does science inform response?
1:30 – 1:50 pm	Paige Doelling , Scientific Support Coordinator (SSC), NOAA Oil spill response from a SSC perspective
1:50 – 2:10 pm	Commander Kelly Denning , Response Department Head, USCG Sector New Orleans and, LT Ryan Dickson , Commanding Officer of USCG Station Grand Isle Response from the USCG perspective
2:10 – 2:30 pm	Question & Answer
2:30 – 2:45 pm	Break
2:45 – 3:05 pm	Tim Nedwed , Oil Spill Response Senior Technical Professional with ExxonMobil Upstream Research Company An industry perspective on offshore oil spill response
3:05 – 3:25 pm	Eugene Turner , Professor, Louisiana State University Marsh Health from before the BP oil spill to 2016
3:25 – 3:45 pm	Edward Overton , Emeritus Professor, Louisiana State University Responding to oil spills means understanding what oil is, what it does when it's spilled, and what to do and not to do during response
3:45 – 4:05 pm	Question & Answer
4:05 – 4:50 pm	Input/Breakout Session
4:50 – 5:00 pm	Wrap up/Adjourn

Texas • Louisiana • Florida
Mississippi • Alabama

